WHO PERSON MEDICINE

It is my belief that a New Creative Medicine cannot exist without the knowledge of God and fundamental Christian Biblical thought and action. Our atheistic American Medical Practice must cease. Only God and His Holy Spirit can show us the ultimate value of our fellowman (our patient) and how to make him whole.

My term for the New Medicine is Logo-Psychosomatic Medicine. The Medicine of spirit, soul, and body. It is the original Medical Practice of America--The Medicine of Ephraim McDowell, Sir William Osler, Howard Kelley and Alexis Carrel. It is scientific Medicine at its ultimate best without the sacrifice of the personal and the godly aspects of life and thought. Rather than rejecting pastor, priest, and rabbi, it brings the clergy into partnership in patient care. It envisions a minister who is a vital part of the health team and a doctor who is also a minister in the highest sense. This is what Holistic health care lacks and is why it is dangerous. The New LPS Medicine does not eliminate God and church as does most of Holistic Medicine nor does it bring in all of the errors of spiritualism, psychic healing, transcendental meditation, mind control, far eastern philosophy, diet fadism, radionics, etc. It is the Medicine of Wholeness (LPS Medicine) set forth to see to it that the physician and whole person through spiritual rebirth, the trine physician can aid his patients to enter the path of wholeness. There cannot be real health and wholeness apart from spiritual rebirth. Most of the illnesses of modern man, particularly in the area of degenerative diseases, result from living in the psychosomatic area of life and living apart from the life of the Spirit, St. Paul tells us, "To be spiritually minded is life and peace". (Romans 8:6) Modern Medicine is at best psychosomatic and New Testament Christianity informs us that this is a death system. Thus, we can see the fundamental reason for our failure in producing a whole and happy society. We have not only become a failure of Medicine but of our political system and even of the church. We must begin to consider the spirit of man, that which makes him human, that which differentiates him from the animals.

The basic criteria of Whole Person Medicine could be summarized in the following way:

1. There must be research and therapeutic endeavor aimed toward understanding the spirit of man as well as his mind and body. Concern must be developed for the research into spiritual causes of illness and into spiritual healing. Alcoholics Anonymous has pointed the way to the consideration of spiritual illness and its therapists. It must be seen that the spiritual and the psychological areas of man are separate and distinct entities although overlapping and mutually interacting.

2. The goal of the New Medicine must be wholeness (being whole) not just free from illness or disease. A person may have a normal electrocardiogram, a perfect SMAC 23, negative chest X-ray, GT, GB, BE, bone scan, etc. and be pronounced healthy. He may, however, be over-indulgent in eating, smoking and drinking and may have no joy or peace in his heart. Thus, no matter what his laboratory values are he is far from being well. The New Medicine seeks to change patients whole in spirit, soul and body--the possessors of vibrant health.

3. Most diseases stem from an imbalance of spirit and soul. Lack of spirituality lays the groundwork for the development of illness. The way one lives and the environment in which one lives have much to do with the advent of disease. Arthritis, emphysema, hypertension, cancer--to name a few--illnesses seen every day are end stages of processes set in motion years before the disease manifests itself. Most of our medical treatment is the treatment of the end stages.

In the remainder of this century man must begin to learn to live again. He must begin to stop destroying and to start creating. The declination and fragmentation of life must be brought to a halt. We must have a synthesis--a healing of our lives. The individual himself must begin to realize that he is responsible for his own health. In the future, the patient hopefully will come to the physician while he is well and be assessed as to how he may stay well and whole. Based upon history and physical examination including stress-testing, the physician can prescribe changes in lifestyle including exercise programs, spiritual growth advice, psychological counseling, in a much more accurate and responsible manner than presently possible.

Both physician and patient must return to God. We must return to Jesus. We must be Logo-Psychosomatic--Psychosomatic--any longer, in any area of our lives.
